Listed as a UNESCO World Heritage Site in 1999, Saint-Émilion combines medieval heritage with centuries-old vineyards.

Its town, built on a limestone plateau, is home to the emblematic monolithic church, entirely carved out of the rock. Its clay-limestone terroir, well suited to Merlot, produces wines of great elegance. Between heritage, terroir and great wines, Saint-Émilion is an unmissable stop on any Bordeaux wine-tourism trip.
